

故事

「气」詞義為明亮的星,靈感來自川菜的基本配料——八角。這個古老的中國文字由「水」及「口」組成,反映出川菜令人垂涎慾滴的特點。

我們優秀的廚師團隊在烹調川菜方面有深厚的經驗,為傳統正宗川菜加入現代的詮釋,同時又不失川菜特有的甜、酸、麻、辣、苦、香、鹹等七種滋味。您將在這裡真正品嚐到川菜各式各樣的濃烈風味。

Our Story

The name Qi (pronounced: chee) is defined as a shining star and inspired by one of the fundamental ingredients in Sichuan cuisine – the star anise. The Chinese character, ancient in its roots, is formed by the characters of water and mouth - reflective of the mouth watering flavours of Sichuan food.

Our team of chefs, with their deep rooted experience in Sichuan cuisine, have created a modern interpretation of traditional and authentic Sichuan dishes that reflect the “seven flavours of Sichuan” (spicy, aromatic, sweet, bitter, sour, peppery, and salty). We hope you savour the spectrum of intense flavours that you are about to enjoy.

The term "mala" in Chinese literally means unbingly Spicy. This wonderfully flavorful, numbingly spicy broth gets its characteristic flavors from Sichuan chilies and Sichuan peppercorns. The chilies give the soup a fiery burn, while the peppercorns have an unusual numbing effect on the tongue.

One of the Sichuan cuisine bold flavours, particularly the spiciness and hot resulting from liberal use of garlic and chili peppers and ginger.

Please inform your server of any food allergies or dietary restrictions.

Our Michelin starred Kitchen team has created a modern interpretation of traditional and authentic Sichuan dishes.
