THE CHINESE ART OF TEA

*All the tea in the world originally came from China over 2,000 years ago.
It is only in the last century and a half that tea has been grown,
From Chinese seeds, anywhere outside that country.*

*The Chinese art of tea is known as Cha-Dao (茶道).
Cha-Shu embraces skill in the growing and processing of tea leaves;
Hence, a tea session becomes a short retreat from the stresses and strains of modern life.*

*In general, tea belongs to three main categories :
Green, which is unfermented;
Semi-green, which is partially fermented and generally is of two kinds, Oolong and Bolea;
and Red, which is fermented and is often called Black Tea.*

Whether the quality of tea is excellent, good or mediocre depends on many factors but particularly on the nature and locality of the bushes or trees from which it is culled.

Through scientific tests, tea is found to contain tannic acid, Vitamins A, B2, C, D and P, Manganese and Aromatic oils.

Lion's Peak Dragon Well

One of China's best known green teas, our Lion's Peak Dragon Well comes from the Lion Mountain in Zhejiang Province, China where the earliest Dragon Well tea is produced some 1,200 years ago. The tea leaves are first flush leaves that have been harvested just before Qing Ming Festival and then subjected to a laborious process of drying. The resulting flat and smooth leaves yield a pale jade liquor that is refreshingly smooth, sweet and delicate, with a hint of sweet chestnuts. Traditionally presented as a tribute to many generations of Chinese emperors. The tea is reputed to revive the body, aid digestion and lower blood pressure. It also has anti-cholesterol build up agents and anti-oxidants. Our Lion's Peak Dragon Well is the First Grade version of this truly sublime tea and its quality is unsurpassed.
