BEAUTIFUL SPIRITS

In this new Golden Age of drinking, it is not only the cocktails that are being taken to new heights. Artisan distilling is in the midst of a renaissance, with a multitude of producers offering beautiful, hand-crafted spirits suited for the most curious imbibers.

Welcome to our carefully curated collection of our favorites from leading distillers around the world.

AMERICAN WHISKEY

Our pride and joy, over 150 bottles and counting of the good stuff.
The best of the big boys from Kentucky, upstart craft distillers, and a few rare gems

AGAVE

Gift of the goddess Mayahuel, agave spirits were sacred in pre-Hispanic Mexican culture. They have been used in religious ceremonies for 1,500 years. One of the greatest artisan distilling traditions, craft tequilas and mezcals are only now becoming recognized and available in many parts of the world.

GIN

Neutral spirits distilled with juniper berries and other botanicals, gin evolved from the Dutch genever of the 15th century, which used sweetened malt wine as a base for distillation. In recent years, there has been a veritable explosion of new styles and brands of gin, with enterprising craft distillers experimenting with unique base spirits and combinations of botanicals.

SUGARCANE SPIRITS

Originally a by-product of the Caribbean sugar trade when it was the rough and tumble tippie of pirates and slaves. Rum, the best known of the sugarcane spirits, has grown into a vibrant category with a deep history and tradition.

AROMATIZED WINE

Integral to balancing fine spirits in many classic cocktail recipes, and a centuries-old aperitif tradition in Western Europe, aromatized wines have seen a world-wide renaissance in the past decade. A base of fine wine flavored with herbs and spices, vermouths must contain wormwood while quinquinas get much of their bitter flavor from quinine.

GRAND BITTERS

Distilled spirits flavored with a medicinal mix of herbs and spices designed to whet the appetite or aid digestion. Apertifs are generally more bitter in order to stimulate, while digestifs are made sweeter to satiate. Many of these beautiful tipples have been produced for hundreds of years with recipes that remain closely guarded secrets passed down through the generations.

BRANDY

From the venerable grape varieties of the Cognac and Armagnac regions of France, to the bold American applejacks and delicate eau-de-vies, nothing captures the essence of a seasonal flavor like a well crafted brandy. Patience, low yield production methods and an unwavering commitment to quality are the hallmarks of the great producers of these fruit-based spirits.

ABSINTHE

Known as “the green fairy”, this mysterious spirit is purported to have hallucinogenic properties and was vilified and banned for most of the last century. Making a comeback on the world stage since the 1990’s, traditional absinthe is a high proof brandy-based spirit flavored with anise, fennel, wormwood and other culinary herbs.

FINE WINES

For centuries, New Yorkers have quaffed the very best wines and champagnes. Wine shipments from the Old and New Worlds traditionally arrived in the great pier districts on Manhattan's West and East sides, before being hustled off to eager tipplers in grand hotels, bars and restaurants.

In keeping with this tradition, our by-the-bottle selection features some of the finest examples from the rich and wonderful world of modern wine-making.
