CHARDONNAY

Chardonnay is an easy wine for wine and food pairings. Because Chardonnay comes in a wide variety of styles, with different textures, levels of sweetness and acidity, there is an equally diverse array of wine and food pairings that work with Chardonnay. All types of seafood from shell fish, to grilled fish is the perfect place to start. Chardonnay can be perfectly paired with a myriad of raw seafood dishes. Seafood simply cooked, braised or buttered, sushi, sashimi are all great with Chardonnay. The richness of Chardonnay copes well with lobster, crab and other fatty fishes. Chicken, veal, pork are all good pairings with Chardonnay. Due to the natural acidity in Chardonnay, it makes a perfect pairing with a wide variety of hard and soft, or even creamy cheeses as well.

THE WHITE WINES

SEMILLON

There is an overall elegance and concentration, an unctuous quality that botrytised Sémillon offers to the wine in the form of heavier textures, intense fruit and high viscosity. With its lower levels of acidity, almost oily textures, more subtle aromatics and rounder profile, it is the perfect complement to the leaner lines, zesty profile and fresh acidity

TREBBIANO

Trebbiano (or Ugni Blanc in France) is a white-wine grape originally from Italy, where it generates large quantities of simple but refreshing white wine. On the table, Trebbiano is best with simple food preparations such as poached white fish with a squeeze of lemon, or pastas and risottos with minimal ingredients. Trebbiano is at its best with the classic antipasti and pastas of the Roman trattoria, including baccalà, frutti di mare, bruschetta, spaghetti alla carbonara, bucatini all'amatriciana, and fettucini alfredo.

THE RED WINES

GAMAY

Gamay grapes grow especially well in the Beaujolais district of France where they are used to produce Beaujolais wines. Although the Gamay grape itself has lots of tannins, the resulting Gamay wines are characterized by fairly low tannins. Wines made from Gamay grapes have fresh, fruity flavors like strawberry and raspberry and aromas of pears.

THE RED WINES

PINOT NOIR

Pinot Noir wine is produced from red grapes but it is much lighter in color than other red wines. Pinot Noir flavors and aromas include roses, fruits, black cherry, berry, and currant. Other Pinot Noir characteristics include high acidity and low tannins. Pinot Noir's flavor depends heavily where it is grown and how the wine maker treats it, so a good winery can produce exceptional wines.

PINOTAGE

Pinotage is a unique South African grape variety that only seems to grow well in South Africa, most wine drinkers haven't had as much experience with it as they have with other red wines. The situation for Pinotage is made worse by the fact that South Africans have a love it/hate it relationship with Pinotage: some enjoy its unique flavors while others disdain it because it's not European enough. Pinotage wines are characterized by the cherry fruit flavors of Pinot and the earthiness of Rhone Cinsault.

MERLOT

Red fruits, easy tannins and a soft finish are the characteristics of Merlot wine. But there's more to Merlot than being smooth. It's actually a bit of a chameleon, partly because of how Merlot is vinified and mostly because of where it's grown. Take a look at the range of Merlot wine taste based on region (cool climate vs. warm climate).

CARMENÈRE

Takes its name from carmin, which can be translated into crimson, due to the crimson color the leaves take on just before leaf fall in autumn. Carmenere was used in all the great Bordeaux one of the older European grape varieties used to produce bordeaux wine. Carmenere does well in the warm weather climate with its extended growing season. Today, Chile maintains the largest planting of Carmenere in the world. Carmenere naturally matches well with smoked, grilled or roasted meats, chicken, pork, lamb, beef and veal and perfectly with some spicy dishes and strong, hard cheeses.

THE RED WINES

NEBBIOLO

Nebbiolo grapes are grown primarily in the Piedmont region of Italy where they can produce great wines; outside of Piedmont, though, the grapes produce mediocre wines at best. Nebbiolo has complex flavors and aromas, including roses, cherries, truffles, and mints. There can even be hints of tar, tobacco, and leather. Other characteristics of wine made from Nebbiolo grapes include high tannins, high acidity, and high alcohol content. Nebbiolo wines take on orange tinges when they are aged.

BARBERA

Barbera is the third most widely planted red grape variety in Italy though it is most common in the Asti and Alba regions. Barbera grapes produce rich, red wines with strong fruit flavors and aromas, especially black cherry. Other characteristics of wines made with Barbera grapes include low, mild tannins and high acidity which produces a crisp taste.

THE RED WINES

SHIRAZ/SYRAH

Syrah and Shiraz are the exact same wine. When Syrah (Sih-Rah) arrived in Australia from its birthplace in France, Australian winemakers took to calling it Shiraz (Shi – RAZ), instead of the grape's original name, Syrah. No matter what you call it, Syrah is one of the darkest red wines on the market. Darker than Cabernet Sauvignon, this wine is so dark that if you were to hold a glass of the wine up to the light, you'd have a very hard time seeing through it. Syrah is a wine with a large amount of mouth-drying tannins, and it is known to be full-bodied, which means it feels heavy in your mouth; the wine features flavors such as berries, pepper, tobacco, and even smoked meat. While Syrah is the perfect accompaniment to meat, it really goes well with anything, so drink it with any food you enjoy eating. A great bonus to drinking Syrah is that due to the high level of tannins present in the wine, Syrah has one of the highest level of health-benefiting antioxidants.

THE RED WINES

CARIGNA

Carignan (Cariñena) is such a gritty, tannic and acidic wine, your food should be bold in flavor as well. It's definitely ideal to pair Carignan with any cut of grilled steak, marinated poultry or moist, braised brisket. Try bringing out some spicy and savory vegetables to go with the meat. Along the lines of grilled bell pepper, jalapeño, squash and or sweet potato.

THE RED WINES

two sub-regions with distinct vinicultural traditions, the Northern Rhône and the Southern Rhône. The northern sub-region produces red wines from the Syrah grape. In general, are less opulent and fruit-driven than the Grenache-based reds of the south. Wines from the northern Rhône tend to display the classic "savory" characteristics of Syrah. The southern produces an array of red, white and rosé wines, often blends of several grapes such as in Châteauneuf-du-Pape.

has a much drier profile though it does not lose the fruitiness and it often has notes of apple, pear, and apricot. Prosecco a go with Prosciutto, stuffed mushrooms, creamy sauces, almonds, seafood, fried fare, spicy Asian entrees and even potato chips or buttered popcorn. This is a very forgiving, food-friendly sparkling wine option.
